The .SECUTOR. hunter or follower, was a gladiator of Sannites origin, in Roman times. Employed in gladiator games, he armed himself with the rectangular scutum and the agile curved short sword; his adversary was the retiarius, a gladiator generally armed with the net, in which the secutor was rarely caught, but he was able to follow him quickly, gaining ground till he deliver the final blow. The choice of the names for the Falanghina and Sannio Rosso, for the two top wines of the Samnes series, derives from the need to recall attention to an important page of the millennial history which was part of a territory, filled with as much tradition and culture as the Sannio certainly is. Bright acidity and hints of yellow, tropical and citrus fruit. Excellent to accompany fish and white meat dishes. Service temperature: 12-14 ° C.

The "Masseria Vigne Vecchie" organic winery is born in Sannio, in Solopaca (BN), in 2005 as an agricultural cooperative. In 2016, thanks to love and the passion for organic wine products, is detected by the family Carnation. Already established in modern glass business, it acquires fourteen hectares of land intended to preserve organic farming. Therefore, create one line of organic wines called "Samnes" in an attempt to claim and make known their roots helping to spread culture and love for their land. Which, in this case is so grateful that he returns, every year, giving those wonderful fruits from which wine is produced. The dedication to the arts and to the literature leads to the birth of "Samnes", a novel of the same name, which tells the story of the Ancient Sannio and the origins of the Samnite Wine.
